

Authority/Responsibility

Minnesota Statute 123 places the responsibility for operation of local school systems in the hands of a School Board and, by its designation, the Superintendent of Schools as chief executive officer. The School Board and Superintendent allocate certain responsibilities/decisions to a site team and affirm their intent to fairly and adequately support Site Based Decision Making. The School Board and Superintendent retain the ultimate authority over matters governed by law and contract.

Policy Summary

Over the years, the district Site Based Decision Making Plan has been reviewed and revised on several occasions. The 2006 updated plan was developed through collaborative efforts from teacher representatives of the United Teachers of South Washington County (UTSWC), the School Board, district and building administrators, support staff, parents and students. In the book Group Leadership and Democratic Action, Franklin Haiman notes that “the only circumstances people fully understand are those that they have experienced themselves, and the only ideas they fully grasp are those which they have participated in formulating. By extension, decisions which are a product of the group’s own efforts elicit more solid and enduring support than the edicts of a single person or a select few.” Effective Site Based Decision Making will help our schools become even better places to learn and work.
